

ABSTRACT

A method and system for a discoverable transcoder server to communicatively couple to a media server to receive media signals from the media server. The 5 transcoder server transparently converts the media signals to a format compatible with at least one media renderer, and the transcoder server transmits the converted signals to the at least one media renderer.